Card Of Thanks

I would like to thank my relatives, friends and neighbors for their kindness shown me during my recent stay in the hospital and since returning home. Also for the flowers, gifts, cards, food and phone calls. Your thoughtfulness will always be remembered. Ellen C. Nash. 11-29-1p

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear husband, Andrew Marvin, Departed this life two years ago, Nov. 29, 1960.
Two years have passed since you left me,
I still feel the loss and pain.
But I know when life here is ended
Up in heaven we'll meet once again.
Your memory to me is a keepsake
With which I shall never part.
Though God has you in his keeping,
I still have you in my heart.
Sadly missed by his wife, Erma Martin. 11-29-1p

"In loving memory of my father, Mr. L. Colher Elder, who left us 3 years ago, November 28, 1959.
The Golden gates were open,
A Gentle voice said come,
With a farewell unspoken,
He calmly entered home.
daughter, Margaret".

In memory of E. Kinckle Martin who passed away Dec. 2nd, 1958.
A chair is vacant in our home,
A place which never can be filled.
A silent thought, a secret tear,
keep your memory ever dear.
Time takes away the edge of grief but memory turns back every leaf.
We know God has you in His hand
but we have you in our hearts.
Sadly missed by wife and children.

Ford ideas so contagious they started a new trend in cars!
If you think today's cars have a lot in common, credit the Ford sketches above. For these ideas sparked a revolution in car design that's reflected wherever you look on the American road.
Ford ideas have a habit of being exciting—practical, too. Consider the innovations found only in our '63s. There is Ford Galaxie's smooth new velvet ride. It cost Ford $10 million to bring it to you, but costs you not a penny extra to enjoy. There is Ford's full twice-a-year or 6,000-mile maintenance schedule that cuts service worry and expense to a minimum. There's a new manual heater control that lets you shift down from second to first without coming to a stop. And for '63, there's the choice of models ever offered—44 in all.
Only Ford offers all these advantages now. Only Ford cars will eventually cash in. So if you can't wait, hurry.
See your Ford Dealer!

Here's America's most competitive roadster as seen on the 1963 Ford Galaxie 500 XL.

[illegible] for the traveling public [illegible] refused to follow Eastern [illegible] the Civil Aeronautics [illegible] creases which would cost the passenger his fare reductions and Eastern then backtracked because the industry "refused to follow its leadership."

The end of the railroad passenger tax was long overdue. The elimination of this ten per cent tax also applies to buses and boats, and brings these fares down considerably.

It is rare for any tax to be removed from the books and this emergency tax lived for seventeen years after the end of World War II. It, and other emergency war taxes, should have been removed long ago but we have been spending more than we could afford for so many years that a case can be made for the retention of just about any tax, no matter how obsolete and archaic it might be.

Just Like Americans

A survey by Fortune revealed that there are between 5 and 6 million shareholders in Japan and these range from housewives and fishermen to factory workers and wealthy families.

Japanese shares are cheap (average 40 cents each) and the volume of trading is prodigious by the United States standards: 253 million shares being traded in one day last year on the Tokyo exchange.

So the new life in Japan is modeled after the American pattern only a few short years after the Japanese warlords attempted to extend the old Oriental imperialism to the United States.

It is interesting to note that, along the way, those concerns doing the greatest amount of advertising have nearly always been at or near the top in their fields.

Advertising Helps Everybody

Some labor unions sometimes complain that companies are putting too much money into this type of publicity. Union officials want higher wages for their members, and more and more expensive fringe benefits, — and often think of advertising as mere diversion of money that should go to the employees in one form or another. Hence, company officials should make plain to their personnel the value of advertising in holding up production and keeping employment high. A well-run firm is careful not to waste funds in profitless advertising. Results are always carefully studied, and directions are pursued that bring about greater sales, which in turn lead to larger payrolls.

Newspaper advertising is to a great extent responsable for our having the highest wage rates and the best standard of living in the world. There could be no mass selling without newspaper advertising. Mass production would be an impossibility without mass selling. Without mass production, our standard of living could not conceivably have reached its present historic height.

Smaller Cities Important

Many corporations located in or immediately outside of big cities place most of their outlays in national media, but more and more are recognizing the value of local placement. For instance even some of the biggest concerns are giving more attention to small dailies and weeklies. I expect this tendency to increase over the coming years. Surveys have indicated that people of small communities read advertisements with great care.

In fact, I should say that I still consider newspapers, both large and small, as a safe investment. This is particularly true where there is only one newspaper which controls a given area, with the focus in a smaller city. True, production costs are moving upward, but it is still relatively easy to raise the price of a newspaper by a cent or two. People still want written news, and the more they pay for a paper the more carefully they read both the news and the ads. This means that the advertising space becomes more valuable.

Advertising And You

Occasionally I hear somebody say, "What is advertising doing to help me?" That is an easy question to answer. It is helping you, for one thing, to hold your job 52 weeks out of the year. It is helping to up your "take home" pay. It is increasing employment, so that your children too can get a good education. All of us should encourage newspaper advertising.

Home For God

Lesson for December 2, 1962

Here we have five sentences translated from a letter written to a church, a good nineteen centuries ago. And yet the word "church" is not used in these sentences, though the thing is there from beginning to end. It is a good thing he did not use the word "church" because otherwise we might think of it so often do) of an organization or a building. Paul, who wrote this letter, never saw what we would call a church edifice, something that photographs nicely and "looks like a church." So he never wrote about buildings. Paul never went beyond what nowadays should be called the "skeleton" organization of his churches; so he was all but silent about what we would call "structure" and "form" in the church. Paul was concerned with something more profound, something more basic. He is speaking to people who have had a Christian experience and live Christian lives. How they are related to one another and how they are related to God; this is the basic thing that makes a church; not ornamentation or the kind of place where they worship and study.

Without Christ, What?

The reader is invited to study these five sentences (Eph. 2:11-22) to see what they mean to him. By way of suggestion, the following thoughts may serve as a guideline. Sentence 1: Eph. 2: 11-12. Paul reminds his readers what their status used to be, and it was a pretty low one. Indeed a lower state could hardly be pictured; separated from Christ, strangers to God's promises (they had probably never read the Bible), without hope and without God. Notice that Paul puts together two separations: from Christ, and from the "commonwealth of Israel"—that is to say, the association of the people who know God, and desire to do his will. To be cut off from God's Son and cut off from God's children, is all the same thing. To say (as some have tried to say): I want to be a Christian but not to belong to the church, is the same as saying: I want to have the love of Christ but I do not wish to share it. It is the same as saying: I love Christ but I do not love those whom he loves. Anyone can see how inconsistent that is.

He is our Peace

Now for Sentence 2: verse 13. The key words are "in Christ Jesus" and "brought near in the blood of Christ." We are members of Christ's fellowship, not because we belong to the fellowship in the beginning but because our relation to Christ puts us into right relations with one another. To put this another way: we are not Christians because we are church members. We are church members because we are Christians. Two strangers on a bus may find that they are both friends of the same person. This at once links their lives and minds; the stronger their affection for the mutual friend, the stronger their attraction to each other. And if this friend of each of these (hitherto strangers has risked his life for each of them, their bond is stronger still. What links Christian to Christian, believer to believer, is that Christ gave his life for each of them.

Sentence 3: verses 14-16. Christ is "our peace." The underlying and almost unspoken reality here is the bitter race prejudice between Jew and Gentile. Paul is saying that Christ is the one bond strong enough to bring together in harmony people — individuals and classes—who "naturally" are bitter and scornful enemies. Sentence 4: verses 17-18. Men who had in times past prayed against each other, so to speak, prayed selfishly, now pray in one Spirit to the same Father.

A Place for God to Live

Sentence 5: verses 19-22. Paul now leaves with us a simple picture that a child can understand. The church — the fellowship of those Christ loves — is like a building. Not just any building, but a residence for God. One brick does not make a home; no brick is without its place and use. The church—the people who make it up, who are the church—is a home for God on this earth.

Library News

Christians in America are being urged to join with Christians in fifty other countries in the 19th annual program of Worldwide Bible reading, sponsored by the American Bible Society. Every day from Thanksgiving to Christmas, in what has been called the world's largest Bible reading class", millions of people throughout the world will read systematically a pre - selected passage from the Bible, each in his own language.

The idea originated during World War II when a lonely Marine on Guadalcanal wrote his family in Philadelphia to suggest that they seek to maintain close spiritual ties by agreeing on selected Bible passages in advance and reading them together on the assigned day, wherever each member of the family may be when he or she be. At the request of the Mother, the American Bible Society provided a list of suggested readings. A year later the Society published a similar list for general use, and the program soon adopted by churches and individual Christians in many parts of the world.

The bookmark which has the suggested readings are available at the County Library — and also many versions of the Bible such as follows:

The Holy Bible, containing the authorized or King James version of the Old and New Testaments. John C. Winston Co., 1939.

The Bible, a new translation, containing the Old and New Testaments, by James Moffat. Harper Brothers, 1922.

The Holy Bible, the DOUAY version, translated from the Latin Vulgate, first published by the English College at Douay, A. D. 1609. John Murphy Co., Baltimore Maryland. This is the Bible used by the Roman Catholic Church.

THE BIBLE: an American Translation; The old Testament; by J. M. Powis Smith and The New Testament by Edgar J. Goodspeed., University of Chicago Press c1935.

THE HOLY BIBLE; Revised Standard Version, containing the Old and New Testaments; translated from the original tongues being the version set forth A.D. 1611, revised A.D. 1881-1885 and A.D. 1901; compared with the most Ancient authorities and revised A. D. 1952.

THE NEW ENGLISH BIBLE; (New Testament) — Oxford University Press, 1961.

Two Bible Dictionaries are highly recommended for Sunday School teachers. They are:

A DICTIONARY OF THE BIBLE; comprising its Antiquities, biography, geography, Natural History and Literature with the latest researches and references to the revised version of the New Testament edited by Rev. F. N. and M. A. Peloubet, Winston, c 1884. A new dictionary is THE WESTMINSTER DICTIONARY OF THE BIBLE by John Davis and Henry Snyder Gehman. Westminster Press, c1944.

Other books which would be helpful in relating the message of the Holy Bible are:

Your Bible And You by Charles R. Erdman, John C. Winston, 1950.

The Bible and The Common Reader by Mary Ellen Chase, Macmillan, 1945. Both of these authors are attempting to help the "non - reader" of the Bible discover the joys of discovering the chronology of the events in our Bible, to the extent that they will read intelligently. Contrary to what some people believe, the authors do not suggest that we read the Bible from "Genesis to Revelations."

Cruden's Complete Concordance to the old and new Testament by Alexander Cruden, John C. Winston, 1930.

The International Standard Bible Encyclopedia, James Orr, Ed. Volumes I — through V.

The Bible In Art; Twenty centuries of Famous Bible Paintings by Clifton Harby, Garden City, 1936.

If anyone is looking for a complete story book in picture of the birth of Jesus, you will not want to overlook this beautiful book. Some of the outstanding prints are: The Nativity, Fra Angelico, 15th Century; Madonna and Child, Fra Lippo, 15th Century The Nativity by Albrecht Durer, 16th Century.

Christ and the Fine Arts; an anthology of pictures, poetry, music and stories centering in the Life of Christ, by Cynthia Pearl Maus, Harper, 1938. Parents, ministers, church school teachers and club leaders will find this anthology not only inspiring for personal reading but of utmost practicality for teaching purposes. Here in one volume is the world's best art and literature relating to Christ. It will make a wonderful Christmas gift
